CONTENTS OF VOLUME XIII.

No. 1. January.

The Relation of Logic to Allied Disciplines: W. A. HAMMOND, 1.
Some Effects of Incentives on Work and Fatigue: W. R. WRIGHT, 23.
Discussion:
The Problem of the Subconscious: IRVING KING, 35.
The Place and Value of the Marginal Region in Psychic Life: J. B. PRATT, 50.
A Correction, 60.

No. 2. March.

A Reconciliation between Structural and Functional Psychology: President's Address: M. W. CALKINS, 61.
Symmetry, Linear Illusions, and the Movements of the Eye: G. M. STRATTON, 81.
On Secondary Bias in Objective Judgments: R. MACDOUGALL, 97.
Mind as Instinct: J. E. BOODIN, 121.

No. 3. May.

Frontispiece: Gustav Theodor Fechner.
The Fechner Number: Editorial Note, 141.
An Experimental Study of Fechner's Principles of Æsthetics: LILLIEN J. MARTIN, 142.
A Case of Pseudo-Chromæsthesia: a tricolor plate accompanying MISS MARTIN'S article, 189.
Announcement, 220.

No. 4. July.

The Psychology of Interest (I:): FELIX ARNOLD, 221.
Are There Hypnotic Hallucinations? BORIS SIDIS, 239.
A Study of Certain Relations of Accommodation and Convergence to the Judgment of the Third Dimension (from the Psychological Laboratory of the University of Chicago): H. CARR and J. B. ALLEN, 258.
Illusions of Reversible Perspective: A. VICHOLKOVSKA, 276.

No. 5. September.

The Psychology of Interest: (II.) FELIX ARNOLD, 291.
On the Analysis of the Memory Consciousness: F. KUHLMANN, 316.
Discussion:
Organization in Psychology: S. F. MACLENNAN, 349.

No. 6. November.

Reasons for the Slight Esthetic Value of the 'Lower' Senses: W. B. PITKIN, 363.
A Study of Certain Phenomena Concerning the Limit of Beats: A. WYCZOLKOWSKA. (From the Chicago Psychological Laboratory.) 378.
Introduction to Experimental Logic: J. MARK BALDWIN, 388.
Discussion:
Certain Characteristics of Experience: S. S. COLVIN, 396.
Categories of the Self: PERCY HUGHES, 404.
Editor's Note: 412.